"Cannot Save Way" Out of Depression, Says Premier Tolmie—Public Has Individual Duty, Hon. R. W. Bruhn Affirms

WARD Four, Saanich Conservative Association, turned out in large numbers last evening to hear Premier Tolmie, member for the district, and Hon. R. W. Bruhn, British Columbia could not "save its way" out of depression, but should take a broader view, for the development of those resources which it had in such abundant measure, the Premier commented in the course of a fine address. Mr. Bruhn made a striking appeal for the sharing by citizens of a greater measure of their own responsibilities for the progress of good government.

Entirely dissimilar, both addresses created a distinct impression and brought enthusiastic applause. The Premier dealt in methodical fashion with Saanich, Provincial and Empire affairs. Mr. Bruhn charged full tilt against the sideline critics who impede good government and contribute nothing to the welfare of the state. Both speakers united in support of the abandonment of party strife and political bickering, in the best interests of the country at this time.

per cent of its major production, no general return to prosperity could be looked for in advance of economic stability in the world at large.

CANNOT "SAVE" OUT
"A point I wish to emphasize is that productive expenditure is fully justified in a country such as this. We cannot save our way through a depression, or bring about prosperity in that way," said the Premier at another point. Every effort, he asserted, was being made to make the best use of the resources of the Province to encourage development under private enterprise, looking to the re-employment of men in their natural vocations.

Premier Tolmie reaffirmed his desire to bring about Union Government in the Province, and reiterated his intention of reorganizing the Cabinet after the next session, and going to the country with the best selection of men available, regardless of their party creeds. There were British and Canadian examples of what could be accomplished by a Government of single mind and purpose for the welfare of the country, meeting extraordinary issues and in depressed times. If by abandoning party rule for the present, British Columbia could be helped, it was the duty of all to bend their best efforts to that end, he submitted.

LEADERSHIP NOT ISSUE
He had already touched the question of the leadership of that Government could remain open until after the election, when it could be decided best by those returned under the Union banner. Economic administration, development of the country, and a return to normal times were the aims to which all good British Columbians should subscribe.

Dr. Tolmie closed with a high tribute to Hon. R. W. Bruhn, who, as Minister of Public Works, has given an opportunity to the Government as a man with a practical knowledge of construction, and one who had advanced by his own efforts to a commanding position in his own calling.

HON. R. W. BRUHN
A stirring appeal to disarm unfounded suspicion of all accepting public office, and a clearer public understanding of the duties of the day, was made by Hon. R. W. Bruhn. There has been in most countries a habitual mistrust of men in office, militating against efforts at good government, and placing under severe handicap those entrusted by the people with the administration of their joint affairs, he said.

"After all, public opinion based on intelligent understanding of the country's problems is the soundest basis for legislation. There is no room for a man to go to bed on this consideration of his own affairs and less cause for anyone to stand on the sidelines and criticize, without cognate thought or help in the solution of the problems to be faced," continued Mr. Bruhn.

PEOPLE MAKE GOVERNMENT
"The people of this country can have good government if they work for it. We should discard the idea of using the word 'politics' with a sneer. It doesn't hurt the true politician, but it does hurt you, for it lowers your respect for good government. There is nothing which so destroys all efforts in public life and in business than to regard any man who enters public life with suspicion."

"Next to having no, there is no calamity greater than having people believe men in public offices are out for themselves. If you teach the youth of the country to harbor that mistrust, you will do your part to ruin the political life of the country. Until every man and woman in the country accepts his or her responsibilities, we will not have the unbiased outlook on public affairs, and we will not progress from the bleakering that has so hurt our country in the past."

TIMES A CHALLENGE
"We must have in each day and generation men who will carry the torch high, preserving our traditions and working wholeheartedly for the good of the country. Two years of the depression are over, and we know that it rests on international factors beyond our own control. We have now reached a point where nearly one-sixth of our population is unemployed. That is a challenge to each and every one of us to do our bit to remedy this condition. There is no direct remedy alone, it must be a solution jointly fostered by all agencies, working to the common end," Mr. Bruhn continued.

"As far as our monetary system is concerned, there is room for improvement, and no doubt it will take place. Our industrial system could be wrecked by those who would tear down everything, but I am sure that there would be no boat to take away the survivors."

NO SHORT-CUTS
"We have seen the development of a great age, with automobiles, wireless, radios and much more besides; and it is perhaps natural that human minds search for short-cuts to improve conditions. Experience teaches that there are no short-cuts, and we had best tread the path that is best known to us, and we will more likely get results."

"The future will be a testing time, and I believe that we will get the best results from co-operation between employer and employee, between capital and labor, between industry and government, and not in friction and abuse. Nor do I believe we will get any improvement through party strife."

FACED DIFFICULTIES
"There have been two occasions of some danger to Canada. One was during the time before Confederation and the other in the Great War. On each occasion we had men who were big enough to sink their private differences and pull together for the good of our country. Such was the spirit of the Fathers of Confederation, the spirit of the men who served in the Great War, the spirit of our hardy pioneers, the spirit we need today," Mr. Bruhn continued.

Dr. Tolmie, he said, had made the opening by his appeal to unite the parties in British Columbia, and served every credit for having made this move. He had no quarrel with the Liberal party, but he believed it was in error in doing what was within narrow party lines. Government needed to face the issues of the day was not a matter of party, but a necessity for economy and efficiency in development of the best resources of the country.

He had yet to find where honesty and sincerity of purpose, between men and measures, had ever been mistaken by the public when called

SAYS MAYOR BROKE FAITH WITH PEOPLE

E. B. Andros Charges Civic Head With Increasing Improvement Tax

HOMES CANNOT BEAR INCREASED TAXATION

Victoria's annual civic election campaign was kindled here last night when E. B. Andros, candidate for the Mayoralty, stepped onto the platform at South Park School to announce what he calculated to be "a safe and sane policy for the administration of civic affairs."

Mr. Andros leveled a series of charges against the present Mayor and members of the 1932 City Council. He claimed Mayor Leeming had broken faith with the taxpayers when he placed an increase of 10 per cent on local improvement assessments after he had promised that the tax rate would not be raised if the ratepayers supported the proposed increase.

ATTACKS ADMINISTRATION
The Mayoralty candidate attacked the 1932 administration for its lack of action in bringing about a re-organization of the departments at the City Hall. "It has taken eleven months, and with the aid of a firm of auditors, to tell the council what was wrong at the City Hall, and now the job is only half finished," he said.

Mr. Andros asked what need there was for engaging a special commission to inquire into a re-organization of the City Hall. "If I am Mayor of this city, I won't be there a week before I'll know what's sitting with his feet on the desk," he declared.

WAGE QUESTION
Dealing with the reduction of wages of civic servants, Mr. Andros said there should never have been any reductions only as the final resort in keeping down expenses. "I am prepared to state here that there will not be any wages reduced of employees who are receiving less than $150 a month. I make that statement without reservation."

Mr. Andros referred to the salaries of some of the heads of departments, mentioning specially those of the city engineer and his assistant and also the lands commissioner and his accountant.

Mr. Andros charged that the city engineer was receiving salary as city engineer, as water commissioner for Sooke and water commissioner for Goldstream, making a total of $4,161 a year, with an additional $600 for the upkeep of his automobile. His assistant, Mr. Andros claimed, was receiving a salary of $2,775 a year. "Can we afford to pay over $8,000 for salaries for two men in times like these?" I venture to say if we advertised for a qualified man to take charge of both positions, we would have to have applicants, even if we set the salary limit at $2,500 a year."

LANDS FOR SALE
The lands commissioner, Mr. Andros pointed out, was receiving a salary of $1,842 a year, with an allowance of $300 for his automobile and an accountant was receiving $1,554 in the same office. "Take the list of lands for sale and hang them up with a single nail. You'll sell just as many," Mr. Andros inferred. He also mentioned the city was paying an amount of $5,000 annually for automobiles used by members of departments.

Mr. Andros received applause when he mentioned the publicity grant. "When I am mayor of this city, there will be no more job riding out of publicity funds. If I have to go away, I'll pay my own expenses, and I won't need a publicity commissioner to pilot me around." He declared he was wholly opposed to any more bond issues. "Improving the refuge of a weak man, and we have come to the end of this borrowing business. From now on, if we are to survive, we have got to first find out how much money we have to spend and then spend it, if it is necessary."

AIRPORT PROJECT
There was another round of applause when Mr. Andros made reference to the airport improvement. He said the taxpayers had voted ten to one against the creation of an airport here, and that in spite of that vote, the council had become committed to a development scheme for Gordon Head. He predicted that in two years the city would have to buy the land to save what money it would expend on its improvement.

Mr. Andros assured the electors that his policy would be one aimed to protect the small home owner from further increases in taxation. He claimed that Mayor Leeming had failed to bring about any real policies during the past year, but would tend to retain the public confidence. He said it would be his desire to see that there would not be any further cutting of staffs, but would work out a system whereby the cost of maintaining expensive buildings would be considerably curtailed.

GREATER ECONOMY
"I fully realize that there are many problems which will have to be faced this coming year, but with confidence and courage I am certain that greater measures of economy can be undertaken without any reduction of service. These are troublous times, and we must take harsh means to correct the situation. The homes cannot stand any further increase in taxation, and there is only one way to save confessions, and that is by limiting the expenditures and stop borrowing. I will reduce the debt by interest charges," Mr. Andros stated.

Before concluding his remarks, Mr. Andros extended an invitation to all candidates to speak at his meetings in the future. "All candidates will have a fair show at my meetings, whether they are for me or against me." The meeting last night was attended by upwards of 150 persons, and A. I. Kirkpatrick was the chairman.

WAR DEBTS PROBLEM MAKES DIPLOMATIC FIGHT IMMINENT

States Congress whose collective will, in the end, will be final.

IN BOLD CONTRAST
Thus the official attitude of the United States Government is expressed in the rider which Congress by an emphatic vote, attached to the Hoover moratorium agreement, opposing both reduction and extension of the debt holiday, was brought into bold contrast with Europe's insistence upon some measure of relief from the obligations, attested by British and French spokes lying unanswered in a State Department vault, asking that the moratorium be prolonged and the whole problem be made the subject of international re-examination.

Meanwhile, Congressional leaders were expressing opposing views on what should be done, which clearly foreshadowed a battle when the issue is joined in debate.

The possibility of a default is known to have been considered by the Administration long ago.

DEBTS AND ARMAMENTS
Senator William E. Borah, Republican from Idaho, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, holds that if Europe is relieved of debt payments, its nations should reduce their expenditures for armaments.

It was James W. Collier, Democrat from Mississippi, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, who today spoke of the possibility of default. Any legislation regarding the debt must originate in his committee. A year ago he was one of those urging approval of the moratorium, but then, as today, he opposed reduction or cancellation. "Today he said: 'If the debtor nations can't pay, let them owe us.'"

TO FOLLOW LEAD
Italy and Belgium are expected to follow the lead of Great Britain and France very shortly. Poland is also reported to be preparing for a similar step. But these countries with lesser obligations are apparently holding back until they can measure the reception the British and French overtures evoke.

FAVOR EXTENSION
NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—An extension of the moratorium on international debt payments and "reconciliation and readjustment of the intergovernmental debt" funding agreements are urged in a report made public today by a committee for the consideration of intergovernmental debts.

The committee was headed by Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of the General Motors Corporation. The report was drawn up by a group of outstanding economists.

A reasonable readjustment of intergovernmental debts, the report said, "promises far greater material benefits to the American people than the direct income which would be received if payment could be made in full."

BUSINESSLIKE MOVE
LONDON, Nov. 14 (AP).—The Government today proceeded on the assumption that announcement of negotiations for final settlement of the war debt meant no further payments would be made to the United States until the negotiations are concluded.

The proposal for suspension of payments due on December 15 amounted to $85,550,000, made public in Washington last night, was described by Government officials as a businesslike move in the interest of the whole world.

The officials believed, they said, that their announcement will have the salutary effect of stabilizing world confidence and promoting recovery of world trade.

While admitting Great Britain will keep in close touch with other nations owing money to the United States, British sources were emphatic in protesting that no united front has been formed by European debtors to press the issue.

Hundreds Killed in Honduras

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, Nov. 14 (AP).—Many hundreds were reported killed during twelve hours of heavy fighting between rebels and Federal troops today at the city of San Pedro.

Insurgent Liberals, who lost out in the presidential election two weeks ago, captured Nacome, 100 miles from Tegucigalpa, and the key to the southern district of Honduras. They captured San Pedro last night, and Federal troops, assisted by Nationalists, were making a counter-attack.

Outbreaks have not taken place in this city, but the situation is extremely threatening.

INJURED BOY PASSES AWAY

Ronald Mobey, Aged Nine,
Loses Fight for Life—
Inquest Today

An inquest into the death of Ronald Mobey, aged nine years, who was fatally injured in an automobile accident Saturday, will be held at McColl Bros' Funeral Parlor at 10 o'clock this morning.

Ronald suffered a fractured skull when struck down by an automobile as he crossed Johnson Street at the Douglas Street intersection about 6 o'clock Saturday night. He was taken to the Jubilee Hospital, where Dr. E. L. McEwen and Dr. F. M. Bryant operated upon him, but the boy died at 9 o'clock Sunday morning.

His parents, who witnessed the accident, sat up with him all night hoping that the boy would live through, but his condition was critical from the start, and the operation was the only hope. Even this afforded little encouragement for the anxious parents, who awaited the outcome of the boy's fight for life.

The boy, whose full name was Ronald Cyril Mobey, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. P. Mobey. There are six other boys and two girls in the family. Mr. and Mrs. Albert Stevens of this city were the boy's grandparents, and another grandmother, Mrs. Mobey, is in England. Ronald attended Quadra Street School.

Alpine Club Has Last Expedition Of Year to Camp

Thirteen members of the Vancouver Island section of the Alpine Club of Canada joined the last official outing of the year to the Lake of the Seven Hills camp, held during the holiday week-end. Weather notwithstanding, eight members, under Thomas Goodlake's leadership, sailed forth from the camp on Saturday and made the ascent of Mount Empress, reporting a most enjoyable trip when they returned to the hut on Saturday evening.

The lake is reported to be higher than ever before, due to the rains. C. L. Harrison, outing convenor, went up to the camp on Thursday afternoon and had things in readiness for the remainder of the party which came in on Friday morning. Circumstances turned the expedition into an indoor work party, devoted to putting some finishing touches on the hut, including the placing of four of the six windows and the erection in the main hall. The remainder of the windows will be put in during the next few days.

In Memory of Canadian War Dead

TODAY is the fourteenth anniversary of the end of hostilities in the Great War. The people of Canada will pay tribute to the memory of the thousands of Canadians who lost their lives in the war to end war. On the right is shown a picture of the Grange Crater, sector of Vimy battlefield, which has been preserved by the French Government and which old soldiers describe as "too pretty to be real." It is the left is the new Canadian memorial to be erected at Ottawa, as it appeared in Hyde Park, London, England, before being taken down for shipment to Canada.

Board, and representatives of veterans' organizations of the city, attended a special interdenominational citizens' service in Christ Church Cathedral, on Sunday, to commemorate the Remembrance Day period. Naval and military officers and a large delegation of members of the I.O.O.F., headed by standard-bearer, also attended. The band of the 10th British Columbia Coast Brigade accompanied the hymns.

Prayers were offered by Rev. H. P. S. Luttrell, pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. Rev. E. A. Henry, of Oak Bay United Church, reading the lesson. Very Rev. C. S. Quinlan, Dean of Columbia, pronounced the benediction.

The high principles held by young Canadians who answered the country's call at the outbreak of the war were described by Rev. F. H. Buck, B.A., M.C., who gave the address. This enlistment, he believed, had been made with a determination to bring about the end of the war.

The speaker paid tribute to the attitude of the men overseas who had endured endless suffering and hardships cheerfully and their everlasting heroism.

In conclusion, he reviewed conditions of today, asking whether the world was endeavoring to successfully carry the high objectives that animated the young men of the nations in war days.

The hymns sung were: "O God, Our Help," "Lord of Heaven and Earth" and "O Valiant Hearts." The Last Post and Reveille were sounded, and the service concluded with the singing of the National Anthem.

Cold Wave Sweeps Southward; But, Subject to Pressure, May Miss Victoria

Subject to the barometric pressure remaining as it is at present, Victoria will escape the cold wave that is sweeping southward through this province, Napier Denison, director of the Dominion Meteorological Observatory here, stated yesterday.

If the pressure area should swing toward Victoria, bringing north winds to the city, then Victoria might experience exceptionally cold weather, Mr. Denison said.

At Dawson the temperature has dropped to 30 degrees below zero, but at present conditions are good for a continuance of rain, which may turn to sleet.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

By Ely Culbertson
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

MINIMUM RESPONSES
One of the strongest features of the approach-forcing system is bidding in the manner in which the tone of the bidding is regulated by means of forcing, opening bids, forcing takeouts, forcing rebids—all of which show hands of game strength—and the negative no-trump response, designed to keep the feet of partner on the ground and prevent contracting for a number of tricks which may be entirely unattainable. In many respects, the minimum response is the most important bid in Contract because it is the equivalent of a stop loss order to prevent in the Contract world the effort to attain an unobtainable game.

England, as well as America, has become converted to the approach principles of bidding, and the hand below, while presenting no particular problems in the play, aptly illustrates two of the cardinal principles of the system.

South—Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

The Bidding

1.—A minimum opening bid. The hand contains no rebid values of any kind.

2.—Slightly better than a forcing takeout. The hand contains 3½ honor-tricks plus the queen of partner's suit, which suggests the strong probability that four tricks in diamonds can be won and thus a game at no-trump is available. If not at a suit.

3.—South applies the brakes. The no-trump response has not increased the contract and North is thus warned against contracting for anything more than game. Of course, a game bid must be reached in view of North's forcing takeout.

4.—Again the correct bid.
In the play, the hand presents absolutely no problem. The success of the diamond finesse assures South of his game contract with one trick to spare.

MONEY FOR EDUCATION

One of the most pressing of the economic questions of the day is how and where to find money for the upkeep of public services, particularly education. The taxpayers of the province might be expected to listen attentively to advice or counsel offered by professional experts who teach economics in the university. Those teachers who work in other departments than economics can hardly be expected to bring to the discussion anything more than an amateur opinion. On matters outside of their special field of study they are not especially entitled to be heard. Some of them, however, have taken a very active part in public discussions upon these problems.

There is, of course, nothing very surprising in the fact that teachers employed in an institution supported largely by public funds should be favorable to the idea that the taxpayers of the province should continue to provide the funds necessary to keep the machinery of higher education in motion. Long ago an expert craftsman residing in a great city and engaged in the trade of making silver shrines for Diana, fearing that his craft was in danger, communicated his fears to the workmen of like occupation so that they were filled with wrath and cried out saying, "Great is Diana of the Ephesians." Similar things have happened since in human history. It would, however, be very surprising if the Minister of Finance should act upon the advice recently tendered by the Professor of English, that a tax on incomes even if it should reach to 25 per cent should be levied to enable the province to provide advanced university education. Professor Sedgewick thinks that the people of British Columbia have sufficient "stamina" to pay taxes at that rate.

Fortunately they are endowed with good sense as well as stamina. The fact is that it is necessary to reduce very considerably the ambitious and extravagant scale upon which educational facilities have hitherto been provided in this and other provinces and lands. The prevailing sentiment, and it is in accord with sound economic good sense, is that the young person who ought to receive advanced education will prove his fitness therefor by showing himself able and willing to work for it, and in the expressive colloquial phrase, "put himself through."

NO SHORTAGE IN GOLD

One well-known scientist does not share a view that has been widely disseminated to the effect that man's success in invention and in mass production has been too overwhelming, and that a halt must be called, or unemployment will become a permanent problem. Professor Herbert Levinstein says we must distinguish the unemployment problems arising out of over-production of manufactured commodities from those arising out of over-production of food. There is a limit to what people can eat, but there seems little limit to the commodities that people can acquire if they have the money to buy and the time to use them.

Dr. Levinstein says it is not true that there is over-production of food today, for the greater part of the population of the world is underfed. He points out that if every inhabitant of the world ate what we call three square meals a day there would be a most alarming scarcity of food. Moreover, he points out that there is nothing in the nature of a shortage of gold-containing ore. On the contrary, the world's stock of refined gold is insignificant compared with that contained in known deposits. In other words, there is no necessity whatever to disorganize currencies. The British Empire controls seventy per cent of the world's gold production and the larger proportion of the known reserves.

Professor Levinstein attributes at least a part of the present depression to the fact that the war debts owed to the United States have to be paid in gold. He asks what would have been the position if these debts had to be paid in bricks instead. The quantity would have been large. Britain would not have pulled down her houses to supply them. She would have arranged for their manufacture, and would have taken good care that the shipments would not have prevented her having enough for her own housing schemes. Just because the material was gold, the ordinary commercial producers' outlook was never affected.

The effect had Britain chosen to pay the annual instalment of $30,000,000 in gold to the United States by mining weaker ores than private enterprise could have been expected to, the undertaking would have presented no serious difficulty. "Now," he says, "that gold is fetching a premium in terms of sterling, new mines are coming into production, financed by experienced people who see in so doing a handsome profit." In other words, since Britain undertook to pay her war debt in gold and not in goods, or in sterling, then her obvious course should have been to produce ore and send this gold to the United States. Sending the gold out of the existing stock constituted the first step in breaking prices and in the disasters that have followed.

DECENCY IN COSTUMES

There is an element of international humor in an arrangement just reached regarding a type of bathing dress that must be satisfactory to the Prussian Government. The two-piece costume is to be abandoned and the gusset is to return. The womanly back may in future be displayed at the seaside as far as the lower extremity of the shoulder blades. Wherein the humor arises is that when correspondence was appearing during the past Summer in the English press regarding the display of the manly chest while bathing there were German comments about British capacity to ignore a world crisis in favor of silly season topics. Now, however, how much of the human form can be displayed has become a matter for official recognition in Prussia, which indicates even the authorities are concerned with "silly season" topics.

There have been decency decrees in Prussia ere now, but the Reich Commissioner in his regulations dealing with costumes for bathing and conduct in cabarets has been very "general." He was puzzled when the question of the costume worn by female bathers came up and explained that he had never heard of a zwickel or gusset. He incorporated the word, however, in his latest decree, and now comedians in Germany are getting full value from anatomical humor. Moreover, the decree says that chests must hereafter be covered in mixed bathing places and that costumes must have legs—and a gusset. At the back they are not to descend below the lower extremity of the shoulder blade. Responsibility for the observance of the delimitation of modesty in bathing falls on the devoted head of an Oberregierungsrat in the Home Office, and it has invested him with a burst of ridicule, so much so that, to escape the importunities of bathing costume makers he has had to take special leave to Bavaria. Decrees affecting decency in costumes have aroused more public interest in Germany than Germany's claims for arms equality.

BIBLE-READING IN SCHOOLS

In Italy, under Premier Mussolini, religious instruction has been introduced in the State schools. For fifty years in that country there was free, secular and compulsory education, but all religious instruction was prohibited. The book of school laws of the Education Department now contains the following: "Instruction in religious matters is now compulsory in Italian schools, but it is optional in private institutions which are not under State control. The regulations stress the importance of teaching religion in a proper spirit, and as particularly stated in the works of religion by Alessandro Manzoni. A syllabus of religious instruction is provided for every class in the school, which includes prayers, hymns, lessons from the Gospels, episodes mentioned in the Old Testament and lessons on the Ten Commandments."

Mr. George Bernard Shaw's latest play, "Too Good to Be True," has proved a failure and has been withdrawn. Mr. Shaw, in this effort, appears to have failed to appeal to the sentiments of the people to whom he caters. The play is a devastating criticism of modern civilization. It strives to portray that worse is ahead. English audiences distrust such sentiments. They are never Jeremiahs when in a tight corner. Mr. Shaw has not helped his reputation by failure to grasp the inherent fighting qualities of the race.

In the course of his campaign speeches in the recent Presidential election in the United States Mr. Franklin Roosevelt pointed out that while in the United States there had been 6,000 failures of banks during the present depression there had not been a single failure in Britain or in Canada. That is an excellent tribute to the banking systems of the British Empire. It was intended by Mr. Roosevelt to show by comparison the need of reform in the United States.

The award of the Nobel Prize for Literature to Mr. John Galsworthy is the second of its character year to go to Great Britain during the present year. A similar prize in Medicine and Physiology was awarded a few weeks ago jointly to Sir Charles Sherrington and Professor Edgar Douglas Adrian for their discoveries in connection with the neurons. Sir Charles is the Waynflete Professor of Physiology at Oxford. Professor Adrian is Fulerton Professor of the Royal Society and Fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge.

RECREATION HAS IMPORTANT WORK

Frank Paulding Addresses Gyro Club on Preparation for Duties of Life

The proper use of recreation and some of the lessons to be learned from it formed the subject of a most interesting and instructive address given by Frank Paulding, secretary of the Y.M.C.A., before the Gyro Club yesterday.

The speaker stressed the tremendous good that the service clubs were doing on the American continent. The human animal, Mr. Paulding declared, was a gregarious animal. He liked to work with others of his kind rather than alone. This was made manifest in the service club movement. Throughout the work of the clubs there was very much that could be regarded as recreation in the highest sense. He admonished his hearers not to take their recreations too seriously so that they became strained by them.

ADVANTAGES OF RECREATION

Mr. Paulding said that it had been set forth that there were three main urges implanted in the human race. These were self-preservation, the desire for knowledge and self-expression. The latter two urges, he said, being synonymous with recreation. It had been said that "as we play, we live." There were more lessons in play than one had any idea of.

In the modern life men were called upon to bear loads for which the muscles of the body were not fitted. It was that many were in mental hospitals. It was necessary to build up a manhood fit to meet the demands of the modern world.

Recreation he divided into three classes, sport, art and service. In the matter of sport, the greatest benefit was of course derived from active participation rather than in being simply a spectator.

In the line of art, play was made evident in its most intense and sublimated way. It was evident in music, in painting, in the theatre, in the fine arts and in the games. In these lines painstaking knowledge was necessary if active participation in these forms was to be followed.

INCENTIVE OF SERVICE

In service there was subordination to a purpose, the best kind of subordination was in the line of service, said the speaker. To act with a thought for the other fellow was the greatest value, differing altogether from the doing of things by compulsion without the incentive of service behind it.

In answer to a question from the president of the club, R. A. Lipson, as to what should be done in the matter of recreation for the unemployed, Mr. Paulding said that his own experience was that it was equally important to take care of this as well as the maintenance of the unemployed. Programmes might be built up by co-operation with the service clubs which could be called upon to lend assistance.

Esquimalt Will Provide Relief for Unemployed

Work on New Park Site in Municipality Will Commence Next Monday—Approximately $6,000 Expected to Be Distributed at $3 Per Day

Relief work for nearly 100 unemployed married and single men with dependents in Esquimalt at the rate of $3 a day will be provided for approximately the next three months, it was learned from a committee meeting of the Esquimalt council last night when the reeve and councillors discussed the proposed relief project of establishing the new Fitzherbert Bullen Park in the municipality.

The new site is on Lyall Street, near Fraser, and work will be commenced next Monday, when a gang of twenty men will start in clearing brush. Considerable work is to be done, including clearing, grading and draining, after which park equipment will be installed by the municipality.

RELIEF MEASURE
It is anticipated that approximately $6,000 will be available for distribution. Of this amount, $2,000 is provided by public subscription and donations from Mrs. R. H. Pooley and Lady Barnard, and $2,000 is expected to come from both the Provincial and Federal Governments, as this work will be given as relief.

There are about eighty-six married men with dependents in the municipality who will be given aid, while the single men total near fourteen. Men will be engaged for one week every month, for five and one-half days a week. At this rate each man will receive $15.50 a month from the municipality.

All work will be under the supervision of H. F. Bourne, municipal engineer, while the council as a whole will administer the relief.

MAYOR URGES NEED OF HELP

Endorses Appeal Made by Red Cross for Funds to "Carry On"

"In Victoria, today, we know the Red Cross best because of the workshop on Johnson Street where, since the war, some ninety-three disabled men have been helped to maintain their independence by working at useful occupations instead of submitting to a life of demoralizing idleness which, had it not been for the Red Cross, would have been their unfortunate lot. This has been a splendid part of the work of the Red Cross, and has commanded everyone's admiration," said Mayor Manning in appeal on behalf of the Red Cross Society.

"But this is by no means all that the Red Cross is doing in British Columbia," he continued. "There must be people in Victoria who have had relatives who, after serving in the war, suffered from that service so that they had to be admitted to one of our provincial hospitals. For people such as these it is a very real satisfaction to know that kindly Red Cross visitors call regularly upon their kinsmen and prove to them by their attentions that they are remembered for their service to the Empire."

MRS. GRACE GOODEVE DIES
She passed away on Sunday evening, at the Royal Jubilee Hospital, Mrs. Grace Edith Goodeve, aged forty-three years. Mrs. Goodeve was born in Chatham, Quebec, and came to this province sixteen years ago. She had resided in this city for the past year and is survived by two daughters, Helen Muriel and Elizabeth Joyce Goodeve, at 1805 Monterey Avenue, also brothers and sisters in the East. Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock, from the parlors of the S. J. Curry & Son Funeral Home, Rev. Canon A. E. de L. Nunn will officiate, and interment will be made in St. Luke's Cemetery, Cedar Hill Crossroads.

AN AGENT OF CHEER
"All of us hear from time to time about the settlers in our great Northwest. We realize the difficulties that these people have to face, the obstacles they have to overcome and the hardships they have to endure. It cheers our hearts to know that the Red Cross flag flies in that vast new territory. Under that flag in the three Red Cross outposts highly skilled nurses are caring for the sick and injured among the brave men and women who have dared the wilderness to make new homes for themselves and their children."

"We know that the Junior Red Cross, besides inspiring school children to care for their own health and that of others, also teaches them to be of service to others less fortunate than themselves. It is the finest kind of training for the citizenship we need—today more than ever before."

UNIVERSAL SOCIETY
"The Red Cross is a universal organization. It offers to all of us an opportunity to share in a most admirable form of service to our fellow people. This work can be carried on only as all of us accept our share of the responsibility for its maintenance."

"Speaking not only as the mayor of this beautiful city, but also as an individual, may I urge upon all Victorians who have not yet done so, that they contribute to the Red Cross campaign. The winter is upon us. Many people are in need. The demands upon us are increased. But let us all become members of the Red Cross, and at least pay our annual fee of one dollar. Those who can give more, let them do so in the knowledge that the money is needed, very urgently indeed, and will be wisely expended by our friends and leaders, the honorary treasurer of the Red Cross, known to all for his own philanthropy and wisdom. Send him a contribution to 217 Belmont Street, so that the Red Cross may "carry on."

SPONSORS DRIVE FOR TOURISTS

F. W. Hull, of Seattle, Presses Need for Seeking Travel Trade for Year

F. W. Hull, managing director of the Olympic Hotel in Seattle, is a guest at the Empress Hotel. He is here in connection with a drive which is being made to attract to the Pacific Northwest during the coming tourist season, the full share of trade which, it is felt, this part of the continent deserves.

It is pointed out by Mr. Hull that, with the exposition which is to be opened in Chicago in June, there will be opportunities to attract visitors to continue on from that city to see what the Pacific Northwest has to offer. He feels that the cities of Spokane, Tacoma, Portland, Seattle, Victoria and Vancouver should make a decided drive to awaken interest in this section of the country in the interests of the area that is affected.

L. M. Davenport, proprietor of the Davenport Hotel in Spokane, who is also in the city, is in hearty accord with the idea, and is prepared to support the movement.

Gazers Ready for Celestial Show

This diagram shows how the earth passes through the meteor swarm.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—A brilliant swarm of shooting stars, emanating from the eastern sky a few hours before dawn on any day between November 12 and 17, marks the keeping of a celestial treaty which has been noted by astronomers for more than a thousand years.

For on one of those mornings, according to astronomical calculations, the earth begins to pass through the orbit of the swarm of Leonid meteors, which travels in an elongated orbit around the sun once every thirty-three years. Because of the length of the swarm, the earth passes through or near it two or three times in succession. In 1931, during the middle of November, the earth came into contact with enough of it to produce a moderate display of shooting stars. History records, however, that some of these heavy displays were "like rains of fire."

THE LOST COMET
These shooting stars have been named the Leonids because they have their radiant, or vanishing point, in the constellation Leo, with which may appear the lost comet of 1866, or Temple's comet, first discovered in 1866 when traveling in the main swarm of Leonid meteors.

This visitor did not make its appearance in another of its brilliant swarms in 1899, however, and it is the theory of many astronomers that it has disintegrated and become a part of the meteoric dust.

COME CLOSE TO EARTH
Comets, from time immemorial, have struck terror into the hearts of many people. Under study and close observation, they have become one of the most interesting celestial phenomena, the astronomer finds. Usually they appear rather close to the earth and are subjected to minute observations.

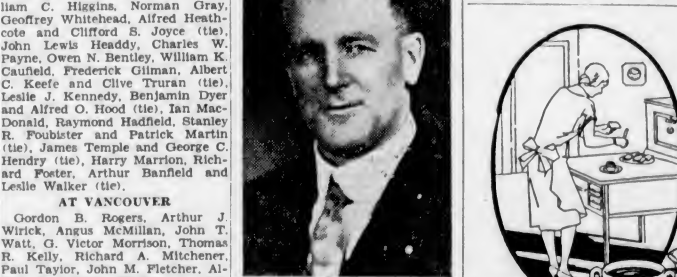

Mathematicians are intrigued at their parabolic orbits. It is believed they are parts of the solar system. They gain speed the closer they approach the sun and are so drawn by the magnetism of the sun that they literally flip a curve close around the sun, only after sunset. All the planets shine with a steady glow and can be easily recognized.

SETTING FOR THE SHOW
Those who keep the vigil between midnight and dawn the middle of November should take this opportunity of locating the planets. Near the star Regulus in Leo, is fiery red Mars. Just below is Jupiter, and in the same general plane farther to the east is Venus. Saturn can be seen about 8 p.m. this time in the southwest between Sagittarius and Capricornus. Mercury can be seen low in the southwest about half an hour only after sunset. All the planets shine with a steady glow and can be easily recognized.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL
Mrs. Nell Anderson, charged with a statutory offence, was committed for trial at a higher court following a preliminary hearing before Magistrate J. J. P. yesterday morning. She was later released on bail of $1,000 in two sureties. H. A. Maclean, K.C., appeared as counsel for Mrs. Anderson, and C. L. Harrison conducted the prosecution.

C. H. McMILLAN STATES POLICY

Alderman Candidate Seeks Re-adjustment of Water Rates to Oak Bay

C. H. McMILLAN

C. H. McMILLAN, candidate for alderman, yesterday announced the platform on which he seeks election at the polls here next month. "I am in favor of reduced taxation by cutting out all unnecessary expenditures regarding maintenance of parks, roads, boulevards, garbage and highway system," he declared. He opposes any further increase in the tax on improvements and will fight for a readjustment of water charges to Oak Bay and Saanich in view of the new supply pipe having recently been installed by the city.

PUBLICITY BUREAU

A vote on the question of making a grant to the Publicity Bureau would be sought by Mr. McMILLAN, so that the taxpayers might express their views. Opposition to marketing of more bond issues is one of his planks. He also is opposed to the bonusing of industries. In connection with the estimates, he would adopt a policy of first ascertaining what the revenue for the year may be and then balance the budget to this figure.

PAVING PLANT

No further park improvements would be carried out if he succeeded in securing the support of the council, and the paving plant would be required. In regard to the latter, the candidate contends that the city is losing money by allowing it to lie idle, as it is depreciating while not in use. A complete shutdown of work on the airport, this matter having been settled by a referendum, is another of Mr. McMILLAN's policies. He believes the airport should be developed by private enterprise.

Mrs. Harold Goodmanson Succumbs to Effects of Burns at Langford

LANGFORD, Nov. 14.—Great regret is felt for the death of Mrs. Harold Goodmanson, of Dunford Road, following an accident last Friday, when she was severely burned. She is survived by her husband, Harold, and one daughter, Myrtle, at home, and three brothers, Donald Goodmanson, at Salt Spring Island; John, in England, and Lorie, in Malta. TO RECONSIDER PARK RESERVE

Ald. H. O. Litchfield Succeeds in Obtaining Further Investigation

Alderman H. O. Litchfield, chairman of the lands committee, succeeded in having a clause in the parks committee report adopted at the last council meeting reconsidered, rescinded and sent back to the parks committee for further report, at last night's meeting of the council.

The clause dealt with the newly-reserved land on Amphion Street, which the lands committee had recommended for park development.

Alderman Litchfield said he had had the parks committee's recommendation slipped past him. The park committee had reported against the park, stating it was unsuitable.

Alderman Litchfield, however, contended that it was suitable as a children's playground; that there were 500 children attending Bank Street School who felt the need of such a park and that the property placed on reserve was most ideal for the purpose and that only five lots remained to be acquired before the city would have ownership of the entire block.

UNIFORM REGULATION

The status of the United Kingdom preference accorded to copper produced in any of the Dominions and refined in bond in foreign countries for shipment, stated that the United Kingdom regulations had been amended so as to apply the preference in bond in a country outside of the British Empire. The amended regulations were not for the purpose of meeting the case of Canadian copper only, but resulted from the desire for a uniform agreement between the United Kingdom and all the Dominions, especially did it affect Northern Rhodesian copper because, while there is the most modern smelting plant in that country, there is no refinery south of the equator, and it is necessary to ship Rhodesian copper matte and blister copper to

New Jersey, where it is refined in bond and then marketed in the United Kingdom under the preference.

OFFICIAL STATEMENT

OTTAWA, Nov. 14 (CP).—Two channels are open whereby the Howe Sound Mining Company of British Columbia may secure the benefit of the 4 cents a pound preference on copper imported by the United Kingdom from Canada. Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, told the House of Commons today. It might build a smelter in Canada, or ship its cop-

B.C. Mine Safety Association Holds Annual Meet at Nanaimo

NANAIMO, Nov. 13.—In St. John Hall, yesterday, the annual indoor first aid meet of the Vancouver Island and Coast District of the British Columbia Mine Safety Association was held. Teams from Nanaimo, Cumberland, South Wellington and Vancouver competed. Judges were Dr. O. G. Ingham, Nanaimo; A. J. Dallin, Victoria, and A. J. Taylor, Cumberland.

The judges had a difficult task in some of the competitions in deciding the winner, as there were many close contests.

Among those present were: Hon. W. A. McKenzie, Minister of Mines; George S. Pearson, M.P.P.; Chief Inspector of Mines James Dickson; Inspectors T. R. Jackson and George O'Brien, A. J. Dallin, honorary secretary British Columbia Council of St. John Ambulance Association.

HOLDING ITS OWN
The prizes were presented to the winners by Hon. W. A. McKenzie. Before making the presentations, the Minister of Mines briefly addressed those present, saying that judging from those present, the first aid work was more than holding its own, and complimented the first aiders on their enterprise. He said the same thing applied at Fernie, Trail, Kimberley and other places in the province. Mr. McKenzie then presented the awards to the successful competitors, as follows:

Junior Boys (three teams competing)—1. Nanaimo, May Roper (captain); 2. Cumberland, Margaret Beveridge (captain); 3. Ina Robertson, Irene Jackson, Lola Gomm, Lily Waterfield.

Senior Women (five teams competing)—1. Nanaimo, Mrs. Roper (captain); 2. Cumberland, Mrs. Morgan (captain); 3. Westfield, Mrs. Pickett; 4. McMillan, Mrs. Carney.

W. A. McKenzie, Novice Cup (five teams competing)—1. South Wellington, Joseph Malton (captain); 2. Greenwell, J. Gilmour, J. Williams, T. Wilson; 2. Nanaimo, E. Slater (captain); 3. Sillampan, J. Wilson, J. Raynor, J. Spitzer.

LADYSMITH HAS SMELTING HOPES
Claims Suitable Site for Handling Coast Ore to Be Urged on Government

LADYSMITH, Nov. 14.—Urgent representations will be made by this city to have Ladysmith's claims as an ideal smelter site considered by the Provincial Government, in view of the possibility that the British Mines may be forced to suspend operation for lack of smelting facilities within the country.

The present plan for Ladysmith Harbor has not been in active operation for nearly a score of years, with the exception of two brief spasms of activity when copper ore was exceptionally high. Some years ago, the site and buildings were acquired by the British Metals Corporation, which also investigated the possibility of several local prospects. Failing to locate a sufficient tonnage of good-grade ore, that would warrant costly development at the prevailing market prices for copper, the corporation has taken no further steps in developing this field.

Local opinion believes that the new situation granting 4 cents a pound preference on Empire-smelted copper imported into Britain, together with the consideration that Britannia Mines provides a heavy source of ore supply, may induce the directors of the corporation to seriously reconsider modernizing the present plant to smelt Coast copper on a customs basis.

Adjacent to Ladysmith, especially in the Tye and Vasey creek areas, there are claims that have been untouched for years, awaiting handy smelting facilities, while farther up the Coast, on the island and on the opposite Mainland sections, there are many prospective modest ore producers which are awaiting the establishment of a coast customs smelter.

The following officers were appointed for the year: President, K. Butterfield; vice-president, V. Case Morris; secretary-treasurer, Colin King; committee, Mrs. McLaverty, Mrs. A. B. Elliott, Mrs. A. J. Smith, Gilbert Wilkes and R. O. King. It was arranged to hold no performance or rehearsal this year, but to commence as soon as possible next year with arrangements for a musical and dramatic entertainment.

VETERANS' BANQUET HELD AT SHAWNIGAN

SHAWNIGAN LAKE, Nov. 14.—The S.L.A.A. Hall was the scene, on Thursday night, of an enjoyable function, when the Shawngigan district veterans held their annual dinner. The able efforts of the chairman, Lieutenant-Colonel Oldham, and Secretary J. C. Rathbone were largely responsible for the success of the gathering. Forty-five were present.

The toast to the King was proposed by Lieutenant-Colonel Oldham, while fallen comrades were remembered by Captain Arthur Lane. Much regret was expressed at the absence of Colonel I. Barclay Wilmet, whose recent illness has been the cause of his departure from the district. The secretary was instructed to send to Colonel Wilmet a letter of appreciation for his services on behalf of the veterans.

An impromptu programme by local talent drew favorable comment from the guests. Included in the entertainment were songs by Captain Hunt, an accordion selection by A. Layton, recitations by Mr. Grainger, recitation and banjo solo by G. Middleton and card tricks by Captain Pallen. Mr. Bott, from the Shawngigan Lake School, kindly played the accompaniment.

It was decided that the annual dance and dinner be held again next year.

SEEK TO SOLVE UNEMPLOYMENT

Cowichan Branch of Legion Suggest Veterans Take Investigation in Hand

DUNCAN, Nov. 14.—At the monthly meeting of the Cowichan branch of the Canadian Legion, Comrade Downman introduced a resolution that a committee be appointed to investigate the causes of unemployment and studying economic conditions in the district.

The suggestion was made to the Provincial command, recommending that, where possible, all branches of the Canadian Legion in British Columbia form similar committees. Also, that the Provincial Command be asked to advise the Dominion Command of this action, suggesting the formation of similar committees throughout Canada and Great Britain.

In seconding the resolution, Comrade Captain Groves said it was essentially a nonpolitical scheme, which definite steps might be taken to get at the root of the unemployment question. Others speaking in support were Comrades Duncan and Gaste.

Mark Remembrance Day By Impressive Services
COURTENAY, Nov. 14.—Although less in numbers than last year, some 150 ex-service men marched from their headquarters here on Remembrance Day to the war memorial cairn at Sandwick under the command of Comrade H. S. Baker, vice-president of the local branch of the Canadian Legion. Lieutenant Leedam acted as color bearer. Behind the veterans followed a platoon of guards duty, for there, with heads bowed and arms reversed, stood four sentinels, one at each corner of the monument.

SERVICE AT CAIRN
The service included four hymns and commenced with the singing of "God of Our Fathers," followed with the "Piper's Lament," played by Piper W. W. Stewart. As the notes of the Last Post died away all heads were bowed in an impressive two minutes' silence. "Reveille," sounded by Bugler Leedam, was followed by the singing of "O Valiant Heart," during which many wreaths, representing nearly all organizations in the district, were placed at the base of the cairn.

In a short but remarkably appealing address Rev. H. M. Ellis, of Comox, made a strong plea for peace, "real peace which cannot be won by fighting."

Also officiating in the service were Rev. M. W. Lees, of Courtenay; Rev. G. L. Bordillon, vicar of Courtenay and Sandwick; Rev. Mr. Eby, of Union Bay, and Rev. A. W. Coker, of Comox.

"Lift Up Your Hearts" was followed by the Benediction and the National Anthem and to the sharp command of the leaders, the service men marched away until another anniversary of the cessation of hostilities on the Western Front of the Great War comes round again.

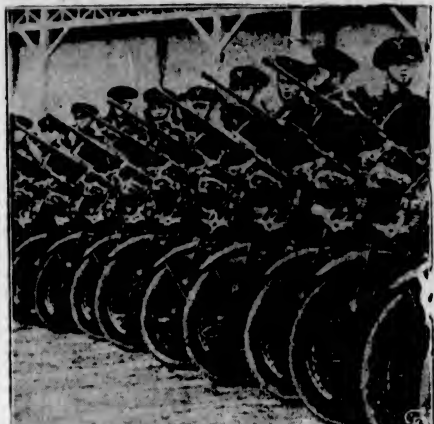

In the evening a fair number of returned men met for their annual Armistice Day dinner and celebration.

CHILDREN PROMINENT
LADYSMITH, Nov. 14.—Gathered in a slight drizzle, hundreds watched the impressive Remembrance Day ceremony at the Cenotaph here this morning. The Wellington-Ladysmith Band, under the baton of J. Tonkin, accompanied the hymns sung by the massed school children directed by J. Harris, public school principal.

Hon. J. Hinchcliffe, Minister of Education, addressed the gathering, and the burden of his remarks was directed mainly to the children, whom he referred to as the citizens of the future. The troubles of today had taught many lessons, and it seemed the destiny of the rising generation to lead humanity to a better day.

The following was the order of the programme: Hymn, "O God, Our Help in Ages Past"; Scripture lesson

Saltspring Island Busy With Real Estate Sales

Coming of Ferry Has Great Effect in Making Island's Assets Better Known—Many Choice Sites in Subdivision Sold

SALTSRING, Nov. 14.—There has been a considerable movement in real estate on Saltspring Island this year, due to the fact that the island is becoming better known, and considerable credit for this is due to the ferry connection of Swartz Bay and Fulford Harbor.

The big subdivision north of Ganges, known as Fruitvale, has had a good deal of activity. N. W. Wilson has purchased two five-acre lots adjoining his property at Wellbury Bay; one five-acre lot has been purchased by Frank Morrison, of Vancouver, who is building a home there; lot No. 1, being part of the old orchard at Fruitvale, has been purchased by E. Parsons, who intends building a cottage almost immediately. This subdivision is well situated, and other sales are expected soon.

AT VESUVIUS
There has also been considerable movement in property at Vesuvius this year. Miss Frampton has purchased the cottage and four acres adjoining her boarding house, and has made many improvements, including preparations for a tennis court. K. Butterfield has purchased a lot at Vesuvius also, and is erecting a house there. Adjoining his property, W. E. Ward, recently connected with the C.P.R. offices in Vancouver, has acquired a pretty site, and intends building early in Spring. The cottage property formerly owned by L. Chaplin, has been acquired by E. E. Harrison, a business man of Vancouver.

At Fernwood, the property of J. Redman, about eighty acres, has been purchased by Mr. Hicks, of New Westminster. South of Booth Canal, Mr. Rankin has purchased about ten acres, where he proposes building a home. Mr. Vesey's place on the Layard subdivision has been sold to W. Norton.

NANAIMO STORE DAMAGED BY FIRE
Proprietor Has Narrow Escape From Suffocation When Sleeping in Building

NANAIMO, Nov. 14.—A loss estimated at some $1,500 was caused by fire which broke out in Dick Pollard's store and building on Victoria Road shortly before 5 o'clock this morning. The fire originated in the basement and was probably due to a defective furnace. Pollard had a narrow escape from being suffocated before he was aroused in time to make his escape from the burning building. The loss is partly covered by insurance.

SALTSRING HAS VETERANS' DINNER
Colonel Cy Peck, V.C., D.S.O., Guest of Honor at Remembrance Day Event

SALTSRING, Nov. 14.—The annual Remembrance Day dinner, which was organized by the Saltspring branch of the Canadian Legion, took place last Friday evening at Harbor House, Ganges. Between fifty and sixty returned men were present, including a large representation from Galiano and Poir Islands. A guard of honor was formed by the 16th Canadian Scottish for the guest of honor, Colonel C. W. Peck, V.C., D.S.O., who inspected it and complimented it on its smart appearance.

The president, Captain M. F. Macintosh, M.C., was in the chair. The toast was "The King," proposed by Fred Crofton; the "Silent Toast to Fallen Comrades," by Captain Macintosh; "The Navy," V. Case Morris, replied to by Captain F. H. Water, R.N.; "The Army," by Major F. C. Turner, replied to by Mr. Winslow; "Our Sister Branches," by A. J. Eaton, replied to by Paul Sooke Women's Institute.

Colonel Peck thanked the guests for the wonderful reception they had given him and said how pleased he was to be amongst his old associates again. In his address he gave them an insight into the work of the pension board. Captain Macintosh also spoke and later contributed vocal solos in the musical programme, which followed. Songs were also given by Mr. Wentworth, a comic recitation by P. Lowther, and Mr. Winslow, by his music, added greatly to the success of the evening. Many rousing choruses were sung by the men.

SCHOOL PUPILS PLEASE AUDIENCE
SALTSRING, Nov. 14.—A delightful performance was given at Harbor House, Ganges, by the pupils of Mrs. Moorhouse's school. Over a hundred were present and watched the children in their varied programme, the chief item on which was a fairy play, "Cabbages and Kings." June Mitchell made a graceful Princess, and played the part excellently; she was well supported by O. G. Springfield as the Prince, Helen Moorhouse, as King Corum; Katherine Popham, as the Queen; Dulcie Crofton, as King Peter Simple. The minor characters, played by the younger children, John Crofton, Lucy Burkitt, R. Loomeore, C. Wilkinson and R. Beddis were all deserving of praise. The money raised by the concert will go towards the Women's Auxiliary for Christmas cheer for the West Coast Mission.

'DOWN TO EARTH' STARS COMEDIAN

Will Rogers Now at Capitol Theatre in Latest Screen Comedy—Double Feature Billed

Back from their famous trip when "they had to see Paris," Will Rogers and his family lead the audience through a breathless and hilarious series of business and social complications in Oklahoma in "Down to Earth," the famous comedian's newest Fox Film vehicle, now showing at the Capitol Theatre.

A daring innovation in screen entertainment, "Down to Earth" weaves into its fascinating plot some of Rogers' shrewdest comments, and beneath its continuous flood of fun and laughter runs a significant undercurrent of some philosophy. Rogers has a well-earned reputation as one of the keenest and sanest observers in the country today, and in this picture he vividly illustrates his own ideas and common sense views—the first time in screen history attaining the timeliness of his newspaper and magazine articles along with an absorbingly realistic story that will keep any audience in gales of merriment.

The second feature is of different setting. The first of the fifty-six offerings John Blystone has directed for Fox, "The Painted Woman," is said to be one of the most dramatic romances ever made. The leading roles are enacted by Peggy Shannon and Spencer Tracy, and the supporting cast of

AMUSEMENTS

On the Screen

Capitol—Will Rogers in "Down to Earth."

Columbia—"Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," starring Marion Nixon.

Dominion—Norma Shearer in "Smilin' Through."

Empire—"Down Our Street," starring Elizabeth Allan.

Playhouse—Warner Baxter in "Man About Town."

Romano—"Aloha," featuring Ben Lyon.

Crystal Garden—Swimming.

The film includes William (Stage Boy), Irving Pichel, Raul Roulien, Laika Winter, Murray Kinell and Chrsipin Martin.

COLUMBIA Kate Douglas Wiggin's "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," now being shown at the Columbia Theatre, Marion Nixon plays Rebecca, an imaginative girl who adopts everyone's troubles. Ralph Bellamy plays the part of Dr. Ladd, a sympathetic and understanding doctor. Also on the same bill is "The Devil and the Deep," featuring Gary Cooper and Charles Haughton.

DOMINION A wedding gown containing fifty-five yards of silk lace is worn by Norma Shearer in "Smilin' Through," her latest talking picture, which is now at the Dominion Theatre. The story, laid in England, covers two periods, 1864 and 1914, with Miss Shearer playing a dual role. It is in the earlier sequences that she wears the voluminous wedding gown which was designed by Adrian and made at the studio by the combined efforts of eleven wardrobe experts.

EMPIRE Nancy Price, who is THEATRE starring in the new Paramount British production, "Down Our Street," which is now showing at the Empire Theatre, is seen in the original stage part in which she made such a great personal hit. Much of the action of the film takes place in a mean East End street, from which the play and film take their titles.

The most important part of call in the street is Bill Collins' select barber's shop.

PLAYHOUSE "Man About Town," with Warner Baxter in the leading role, is drawing large audiences to the Playhouse Theatre this week. It tells the story of two men who become enemies to both a woman gets herself engaged to both of them. Karen Morley appears in the leading female role, and others in the cast include Conway Tearle, Alan Mowbray, Lillian Bond, Leni Stengel and Lawrence Grant.

FINE PROGRAMME IS ARRANGED BY LEADER

The forthcoming visit of the Seattle Symphony is being looked forward to with keen interest by young people as well as adults, as there will be an afternoon programme on Wednesday evening, November 16, as well as one in the evening. Basil Cameron, the new conductor of the Symphony, is evidently a "pastmaster" in the matter of programme work. He has arranged the afternoon programme in such a manner that the "lighter" works will be played between two more serious, but not more beautiful numbers.

The programme begins with the "Carnival" overture, followed by the "Die Fledermaus" overture by Johann Strauss. The "Fledermaus" means in English "The Bat," and the work, like all of the Strauss music, is full of color, gaiety and spirit.

"JACK'S THE BOY" IS COMING TO DOMINION

In "Jack's the Boy," coming to the Dominion Theatre next Saturday, English humor is at its best, and Jack Hubert is one of the most capable exponents of the art of maintaining an audience in a condition of continual merriment. There was a forest of this quality in "Sunshine Susie," in which he held the stage for long periods with grotesque absurdities that were intensely amusing. In "Jack's the Boy" he has even more abundant scope for his delightful fooling.

The character he plays not only fits where it touches; he lives the part so thoroughly that all the time he is creating amusement in which he is admirably assisted by Cleo Courtneidge, who runs the Loch Lomond cafe on lines tending to be quite original.

SPORT CELEBRITIES IN NEWEST SUCCESS

Sports celebrities of days past were gathered together to take roles in "Madison Square Garden," starring Jack Oakie, Marion Nixon and Thomas Meighan, due at the Capitol Theatre, Thursday. Among them were Jack Johnson, Tom Sharkey, Billy Papke, Stanislaus Zyzaco, "Mike" Dolin, Tod Sloan, "Mushy" Callahan, Jack Kearns, Teddy Hayes, Tom Kennedy, "Spike" Robinson and Tammany Young.

Doris: "And when I told him I didn't want to see him any more." Phyllis: "What did he do?" Doris: "Oh, he turned out the light."

The peaceful entry of England's "protest marchers" into Hyde Park, London, as shown above, was followed by the most serious rioting in the history of the city. Two thousand marchers, augmented by twenty thousand of London's unemployed, took part in the demonstration that resulted in the injury of thirty-seven civilians and three policemen. Many arrests were made.

Peter Admits His Mistake
By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Who doth acknowledge a mistake In time to knowledge will awake.

Peter Rabbit sat at the edge of the Smiling Pond, where grasses and rushes grew out of the water, and his eyes looked as if they would pop right out of his head. He had been watching some ugly brown water insects crawling about on the bottom and slowly climbing the grass stems and rushes. He discovered one that was clinging to a grass stem just above the water.

How long it had been there he didn't know. It hadn't moved and he hadn't noticed it until by chance his eyes happened to rest on it. Perhaps he wouldn't have noticed it then but for the fact that just at that instant it slowly split. It split right open and out came one as wholly different as could well be imagined.

"Oh!" exclaimed Peter. "Did you say something?" inquired Spotty the Turtle, who was sitting on the end of a log just beyond.

Peter made no reply. He was too busy watching this new arrival who seemed to have come out of that ugly looking fellow on the grass stem. The new arrival was spread out to the sun and saw more of those queer, ugly insects, and even as he watched one of them seized a tiny fish and began to eat it.

"I don't believe it," said Peter. "How can anyone who has always lived in the water suddenly take to living in the air?"

"You saw it. Can't you believe what you see? If you'll wait awhile and be patient and keep your eyes on that fellow who has just crawled out of the water you will see it again. I've seen it a thousand times."

Peter waited. Nothing short of a fright could have driven him away. He was too interested to think of anything else. And presently he was rewarded. Out of that jolly thing came another beautiful Dragon Fly, which, after a while, darted away just as the first one had. Peter was long in coming to himself. "That was too wonderful for words," said he.

It seems to me that only a short time ago I heard someone say that there is nothing interesting to see here at the Smiling Pond," said Spotty the Turtle softly.

The next story: "Grandfather Frog Becomes Peevish."

It was a hot afternoon and the people in the park were more interested in sitting in shady nooks than listening to the orator. But he persevered.

"We are on the downward path!" he shouted angrily. We are spending beyond our income! Soon, as a nation, we shall be bankrupt! What will you do then?"

Dramatic pause, broken by a few snores.

"I warn you, you will be like the Prodigal Son—glad to eat the food that the swine did eat. But"—he gazed ferociously round—"that will come to an end. And what will you do then?"

A sleepy voice from the shade of a tree asked the question.

"Eat the pig!" it said.

ASKS FOR LEAVE TO REOPEN CASE

Counsel for Stenographer in Wages Action Claims to Have New Evidence

An application will be made before Judge Peter S. Lampman in County Court here this morning to have the case of Miss Margaret Rogers versus Investors' Syndicate reopened for further consideration and for the presentation of new evidence. The application is to be made by H. A. Beckwith, counsel for Miss Rogers.

The suit against Investors' Syndicate was heard by Judge Lampman in October and decision given in favor of the defendant company. Miss Rogers sued for a balance of wages alleged to have been due and payable as the difference between the amount she was paid and that allowed under the Minimum Wage Act.

The decision in favor of Investors' Syndicate was made on the grounds that Miss Rogers was not an employee of the syndicate, but had been employed by the manager of the Victoria office of the company. The nature of the new evidence has not been revealed.

MUNICIPALITIES REQUEST ADVANCE

Four British Columbia municipalities advanced requests to the Government yesterday for aid with unemployment relief costs. These were said to be Mission, Maple Ridge, North Vancouver City and North Vancouver districts. All requests were under advisement during the day.

The Province recently set aside a limited sum of care for advances to municipalities, where such loans were proved necessary. The amount of aid extended in any one instance will be slight, it was intimated, as the requests are many and insistent.

B.C.F.A. Apologizes To Local Football Dukes for Action

Provincial Soccer Body Retracts Statement Against Bloom, Jones, Mesher, Ewing and Poyntz Regarding Suspensions

VANCOUVER, Nov. 14.—The executive of the B.C.F.A. in a letter to the press today expresses its wish to apologize to Messrs. Bloom, Jones, Mesher, Ewing and Poyntz for a statement, in the following words: "Former members of the L.I.F.A. board (Messrs. Bloom, Jones, Mesher, Ewing and Poyntz), suspended from this association," which was given out on September 27, 1932. In considering the matter at the meeting on September 28, the fact that these gentlemen had resigned from the L.I.F.A. before associating themselves with the Pacific Coast Football Association, was overlooked, the association states, and adds:

NO QUORUM PRESENT

"The resolution for their suspension was passed at a meeting at which a quorum was not present and the item was, contrary to the intention of the meeting, released for publication prior to confirmation by the full council."

"We sincerely regret the publication of the above statement, and take this opportunity of stating that the executive of the B.C.F.A. had no right to suspend these gentlemen, and that they have not been guilty of any ungentlemanly, unsportsmanlike or unconstitutional conduct, and that they acted fairly, honestly and within their rights in associating themselves with the Pacific Coast Football Association."

"Signed,"

"B.C. FOOTBALL ASSOCIATION,"

"W. LLOYD CRAIG,"

"R. FORGIE,"

"Secretary."

The above apology has been received from the B.C.F.A. as a result of the demand made in the following letter and after further negotiations between lawyers representing both parties.

October 1, 1932.

Bob Forgie, Esq.,

Secretary B.C.F.A.,

Vancouver, B.C.

Dear Sir:—Messrs. Bloom, Jones, Mesher, Ewing and Poyntz have caused me with reference to an announcement made by you to a representative of The Vancouver Sun and published by the newspaper in its issue of September 27, 1932, and copied in The Victoria Daily Times and Victoria Daily Colonist on September 28, 1932, in which it was stated that the above gentlemen had been suspended from the B.C.F.A.

As you must have been aware, my clients had resigned from the Lower Island Football Association on August 24, 1932, and on August 29, 1932, the four of them, as representatives of their clubs, resigned from the B.C.F.A. and consequently your association had no jurisdiction over them.

Furthermore, as you must also be aware, your constitution provides that a member of the association may only be suspended after giving three days' notice in writing after the date of the meeting at which the charges are to be investigated, which was not done in this case.

Also the local representative of the B.C.F.A., Mr. Alex Marshall, was present at any meeting at which the matter of the suspension of my clients was dealt with nor did he receive any notice of it, nor was any effort made to obtain his views, by telephone.

Under these circumstances my clients can only conclude that no meeting was held at which their suspension was considered, or if it was held that it was entirely irregular and that any resolutions passed thereat are null and void.

The statement that my clients had been suspended implied that they had been guilty of unsportsmanlike and ungentlemanly conduct which would justify such action and constituted defamation of character.

It is obvious from the facts that the report which was given to the newspapers was malicious and calculated to prejudice my clients in the eyes of the football public of the Province of British Columbia and of the players who might wish to associate themselves with teams under their management, and my clients feel that they cannot let such an obvious distortion of the facts pass unchallenged.

I am therefore instructed to require an immediate retraction by you and the B.C.F.A. of the charges the implications contained in your announcement to The Vancouver Sun and an adequate apology therefor in a form to be approved by me on behalf of my clients and the publication of this retraction and apology in The Vancouver Sun, The Victoria Daily Times and the Victoria Daily Colonist at your expense, such publication to be given the same prominence as the original articles.

I am also instructed to require that the resolution, if any, suspending these men, be rescinded and that I be advised of the fact on behalf of the B.C.F.A. of the rescission of the resolution, if any, suspending my clients and within their rights in associating themselves with the Pacific Coast Football Association.

Unless the above requirements are complied with by not later than the 8th inst., I am instructed to take action to recover damages from you and other members of the executive of the B.C.F.A. on whose authority the report was published for defamation of character and also an action against the members and the executive of the B.C.F.A. and the B.C.F.A. for a declaration that the resolution, if any, suspending my clients is null and void.

Please be good enough to give this matter your immediate attention.

Yours very truly,

HERBERT W. DAVEY.

RUGBY HEAD OPPOSED TO RULE CHANGE

President Kinsella Not in Favor of Touchdowns Being Categorized

HAMILTON, ONT., Nov. 14.—Interviewed prior to the Saturday game between Tigers and Toronto Argonauts the proposed changes in football rules as adopted by the Western Canadian Football Union, Dr. M. D. Kinsella, president of the Canadian Rugby Football Union, declared such changes would come up before the annual meeting of the C.R.U., and if the majority favored them, they would be adopted.

However, he declared himself not in favor of the elimination of the single point by kicking, nor did he care for the suggestion that touchdowns be categorized. The element of chance at present in the game, making a so-called unearned touchdown a major score, was a big feature, he said.

AGAINST INTERFERENCE

The third proposed change, in extending the length of interference, was also out in his mind, he declared.

"However, it's up to the rules commission and the annual meeting," he concluded.

S. S. Dumoulin, president of the Interprovincial Union, was of the same opinion as Dr. Kinsella, agreeing that it was an effort to further Americanize the game.

"We have too many knotty problems in the game now," said Mr. Dumoulin, "and I certainly don't favor any further changes."

Both were of the opinion that it would be well to wait until football enthusiasts and players become more familiar with the latest changes before others are adopted.

Gaining a 1-1 draw with Nanaimo over the week-end keeps St. Andrews in front of the race for the First Division championship of the Pacific Coast League on the Mainland, according to the latest standings released yesterday.

The Scots are a game and a half in front of the Up-Islanders, while St. Saviours are third, a game behind Nanaimo. New Westminster Royals have yet to score a victory in league competition, and are in the cellar.

The present leaders are the eleven which will make their initial bow to local fans Saturday afternoon at the Royal Athletic Park against the Victoria representative squad in the intercity series. Keeping ahead of the First Division is no easy task with such strong opposition to deal with, and therefore V's drivers will witness one of the finest clubs ever assembled on the Mainland in action here Saturday.

KID GIVEN CALL OVER PETE NEBO

Negro Awarded Unpopular Decision Over Florida Fighter at New York

NEW YORK, Nov. 14 (AP).—Kid Chocolate, Havana negro, received an unpopular decision over Pete Nebo, of Florida, in a fast ten-round bout at the St. Nicholas Arena tonight. Chocolate weighed 129 1/2 pounds; Nebo, 134 1/2.

Chocolate took considerable punishment in four of the first five rounds, but staged a closing rally that won him the last five sessions and the decision. A part of the crowd booed the decision heartily when the verdict was announced, although it appeared the Cuban had gained a slight edge by his rally in the latter stages of the bout.

Morris Sherman, Detroit, 150 1/4, outpointed Eddie McKenna, 145 1/2, New York, and Pete Hayes, 125 1/2, was given a decision over Vidal Gregoria, 122 1/2, of Spain, in eight rounds. Coco Kid, 134 1/2, New Haven, Conn., stopped Mickey Paul, 135 3/4, New York, in the third round of another eight-rounder.

EXPLANATION FOR SUNDAY'S RIPLEY CARTOON

A handless virtuoso—Gino Palmisano, of Naples, was born without hands, about twenty-five years ago. In the face of this handicap he contrived to acquire a fine handwriting, a college education, and the degree of doctor of laws. But most astounding is his mastery of the piano. From either of his wristless arms hangs a fingerlike appendage, which he has trained to operate the piano keys with complete mastery.

He has appeared on the concert stage in Rome and Naples. His repertoire includes masterpieces by the foremost composers. He has evolved a method all his own, and to see the magic that his sleeve-covered arms can work at the piano one thinks of genius triumphant over all obstacles.

AMERICANS AND HAWKS PLAY DRAW

New York and Chicago Teams Battle to One-All Tie in Rough Game

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—Chicago Black Hawks returned to the Coliseum for their first National League hockey home game yesterday evening and fought seventy minutes to a 1-1 tie with the New York Americans.

After two and one-half years at the Chicago Stadium, the Hawks left the big plant because of an alleged breach of contract, and played before 7,200 spectators.

Teddy Graham, husky Hawk defence man, scored the Chicago goal midway through the opening period on a solo dash, and Duke Dutkowski, a former Hawk, tied it within less than a minute of the second period, after taking a pass from Normie Himes.

ROUGH FIGHTURE

The contest was rough, although only seven penalties were called. Lanky Patterson, American winger, plunged into the cage during a drive on the Hawk goal, suffered a cut on his forehead and was forced to leave the ice.

Line-ups:

Americans — Warters; Dutton, Ayres; Himes; Martin; McVeigh. Subs: Brydge, Dutkowski, Filmore, Convey, Sheppard, Patterson, Keating, Wasnie, Thorsteinson.

Hawks — Gardiner; Abel, Graham; Romner; March, Ripley. Subs: Thompson, Couture, Holmes, Bostrum, Cook, Gotselg, MacFadden, Coulter, Jenkins.

Officials—O. Daignault and Art Duncan.

STRONG TEAM

Glancing over the names of the players selected, it can plainly be seen that the eleven is evenly balanced and formidable in all departments, and should give a good account of itself against the visiting Mainlanders. It is practically the same starting line-up as took the field against Nanaimo two weeks ago at the Up-Island centre, and came through with a 3-2 victory. Changes have been made on the substitute list. Joe Crowe, Esquimalt, who turned in a great game against New Westminster Royals here, has been granted a place and will probably play. Dan Telfer, Victoria City, who recently transferred from the Jokers, will be on the side line ready for duty. Freddy Price, Saanich Thistles, the lad who scored Victoria's lone goal against the Royal City eleven, is the other reserve.

Joe Bloom, Victoria City head, has been appointed manager. Bloom has been connected with soccer for a score of years and will, no doubt, use some of his strategy in bringing Victoria through with a decision. Jimmy Carmichael is trainer and expects to have the squad in the pink of condition for the match. The team will hold a couple of workouts during the week. G. Davies, of the local First Division, will referee the fixture, while Ralph Alick and Robb have been chosen as line-men.

BADMINTON MEET TO START AT ARMORIES THIS WEEK

Annual Tourney of Garrison Club Will Commence Saturday

Record Entry List Expected for Titular Badminton Tourney at Armories—Entries Close Wednesday—Finals Carded November 23

With the season well advanced, the first of a series of major tournaments in local badminton circles will get under way on the courts at the Armories, Saturday afternoon, when shuttlecock experts belonging to the Garrison Club will gather to compete in their annual championship meet. Announcement to this effect was made yesterday by Hugo Rayment, energetic chairman of the tourney. As in past years, a large entry list is expected and some first-class play is looked for before the reigning monarchs are registered in the record books. Entries will close at the club on Wednesday evening at 10 o'clock, and the draw for the opening day will be announced the following day.

Hugo Rayment in the final. The defending titleholder will be on deck with hopes of making it two in a row. Miss Mona Miller is the present women's champion, and will be in the thick of the argument in defence of her crown. Miss Miller was runner-up for the city laurels last year at the Willows, and held the title the year before. She defeated Miss Florence Oates in the final twelve months ago after a close battle.

TO DEFEND TITLES
Drennan Hinks and Ross "Bud" Hocking won the men's doubles title, while Misses Miller and Oates captured the women's doubles trophy by accounting for Miss Helen Nicholson and Miss Marion Pile in the final. Hinks and Hocking took the measure of Rayment and Woods. Both the singles champions figured in another title when they teamed together to defeat Miss Oates and Hocking in the mixed doubles title. Just how the players will team in the doubles competitions this year is not yet known, but it is expected that some of the defending champions will stay together.

Hinks and Miss Miller will face the barrier strong favorites to repeat. To come through both will have to be at top form, as several Garrison players have been knocking at the door of championships for several seasons and are just about due to register in a titular meet.

A hard-working committee has been chosen to handle the tournament, under the chairmanship of Hugo Rayment. Secretary Denny Dispecker, Major H. Dobble, Major J. N. Gibson, L. A. Austen-Leigh, Miss Helen Nicholson, Miss Mona Miller comprise the committee, and their efforts are expected to be rewarded with the largest entry list in the history of the club.

Changes Expected to Help Club in League

AFTER several successful seasons during which the team did not win anything in particular, but made lots of money, Manchester City has fallen on evil days again and reclines near the bottom of the First Division. But changes are being made and the club hopes to start climbing with the new year. The team is captained by Jimmy McMullen, the little Scottish international, whom the City secured from Partick Thistle. Langford, the goalie, is the former Nottingham Forest player. Reading from left to right the players are: Back row—McMullen, Ridley, Busby, Langford, Cowan, Bray, Barnett, A. Bell (trainer); front row—Tosland, Wrightson, Halliday, Tison, Brook. (Inserts) Dale, Marshall, Felton.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14 (CP).—There is restlessness in the middleweight boxing ranks; there is plenty of uneasiness, too. There is more interest in this class right now than there has been since Mickey Walker ruled as king.

The cause of it all is a pleasant-faced Canadian kid from Winnipeg, named Frankie Battaglia. Last week in Chicago he hammered Young Terry, of Trenton, N.J., into merciless submission in seven rounds.

That bout didn't cause all the commotion. It neatly capped the display Battaglia gave here in meeting "Chick" Devlin, a good defensive fighter, who learned to take pugilism's knocks in Vancouver.

Today Gotham fans are crying for another look at the Winnipeg cloutier. And, while several prominent prospects are already clamoring the bout, it looks like the Canadian will get the first crack at Marcel Thil, the baldheaded Frenchman, and his world's middleweight title.

A group of traveling men were swapping lies about their radios in a Smith Centre drug store. An old man had been listening silently. "Got a radio, old man?" asked one of the drummers. "Yeah," replied the old fellow. "I got a little two-tube affair. It's a pretty good one, though."

"Can you tune out these little stations with it?" "Well, I was listening to a quartette the other night, and I didn't like the tenor, so I just tuned him out and listened to the three of 'em."

TOURISTS WIN FROM VICTORIA

Hammond Scores Double Century as English XI Scores Victory Over Australians

MELBOURNE, Australia, Nov. 14 (CP).—A brilliant innings of 203 by Walter Hammond, strong all-round batsman from Gloucestershire, aided the M.C.C. touring English test team to win from Victoria here today by an innings and 83 runs.

The scores were: M.C.C. 408 for nine, declared (Wyatt, 74; Hammond, 203; Ironmonger, three for 62); Victoria, 231 and 94 (Oakley, 83, not out; Allen, three for 21; Verity, two for 16; Hammond, two for 8; Allen, four for 45; Voe, four for 55).

Hammond's innings lasted four hours and forty minutes and included one 6 and twenty-three 4's. He was playing excellently all around the wickets. In dismissing the Victoria team for 94, the M.C.C. bowlers took full advantage of a drying wicket and played with deadly precision. Only 3,000 persons were present, the day being dull. The pitch was good.

DUNCAN CITY AND BEAVERS CAPTURE MID-ISLAND SOCCER

DUNCAN, Nov. 14.—Two games in the Mid-Island Junior Football League were played here yesterday. In the first, Duncan City won an easy victory over the Tennis Fists by a score of 4-0. Haines, Thornton and Kilpatrick (2), did the scoring. The second game between Chemainus and the Cowichan Beavers was a wild affair, marked by rough tactics and two fights. "Chuck" Thorpe, who handled the whistle, had a difficult time holding the players in check, and several were punished from the field for unnecessary roughness. The game, such as it was, was won by the Beavers by a 3-2 count. Abel Joe (2) and Louis Williams did the scoring for the winners, and Cherrington and Hargreave, for Chemainus.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

THE BLOOD STREAM IS THE LIFE STREAM

If you look at the blood as it flows in the blood vessel you see hundreds of little red blood corpuscles hurrying along in the middle of the stream, and on the edges a few of the white corpuscles. These corpuscles float in plasma—a watery solution of salts, sugar, and a sticky albuminous material.

The red corpuscles, when they reach the lungs, fill themselves up to the limit with oxygen, which they carry to all parts of the body. By the time they reach the lungs they have lost much of this oxygen, and have gathered up on their way back to the lungs considerable carbon dioxide, which is a waste product from the tissues that have been working. This carbon dioxide is given up to the lungs by the red corpuscles and more oxygen is taken in to be carried to all the tissues again.

What about the white corpuscles? They keep close to the edges of the blood vessels, and if necessary can actually push themselves through the walls of the blood vessels to reach any point of the body that is in danger. Thus in a boil, or an abscess, you will find a white hard material surrounding the deep red or dark centre of the boil or abscess. This material is made up mostly of white corpuscles making a wall around the boil or abscess to prevent it from spreading to the surrounding tissues.

In addition to this, these white corpuscles attack and kill many harmful organisms in the blood stream. In fact, if infection gets in the body these white corpuscles may increase five to ten times in number in order to fight off these invading organisms. It is by counting the number of these white corpuscles in a small amount of blood that the physician knows how serious the infection really is.

Thus, in ordinary health, someone has likened these white corpuscles to scavengers which gather up or kill the ordinary number of harmful organisms which get into the system. However, in illness the white corpuscles are like a strong army defending the body from invaders.

The plasma or fluid in which the corpuscles float carries the food materials, after they are fully digested, to all the tissues of the body. It also removes the wastes to the organs which remove them from the body.

Thus with red corpuscles to carry the oxygen so that heat and energy may be obtained, the white corpuscles to fight off invaders, and the plasma to carry the food materials everywhere, you can realize why the blood stream is really the "life" stream.

He was a new waiter, and she was a short little woman. After giving her order she tried in vain to settle her toes comfortably on the restaurant floor. "And bring me a hassock," she therefore added.

The waiter paused a moment, and meditatively brushed the tablecloth with the serviette, and rearranged the glasses and cruet several times, and then got very red in the face.

"Yes, ma'am," he said at last. "And will you—er—have the hassock broiled or fried?"

TO MOVE HEAVEN AND EARTH

"To move heaven and earth"—one of our most popular expressions for the supreme effort which leaves no stone unturned, which spares no conceivable effort or attempt to gain its object.

The phrase smacks of modern enterprise, of the determination plus that spells such driving force as is rare in the past.

It is not of modern origin. Though not ancient, it comes of an age which was as far removed as the ancients from a general motivating spirit such as we have just described.

"Can't see why I should buy your book," said the farmer to the persistent canvasser.

"Why, it will show you how to be a better farmer."

"Listen, son," said the old man impressively, "I'm not half as good a farmer now as I know how to be."

The magistrate who was standing for Parliament encountered the local poacher and stopped to ask if he might expect the latter to vote for him.

"The reprobate shook his head."

"I suppose," said the magistrate, "you still remember how I sent you to prison?"

"Oh, no," said the other, generously. "You did your duty, and byoneses is byoneses. But what did rile me is the fact that you kept on sayin' I was poachin' rabbits when they was hares. I'm sorry, but a man what doesn't know the difference between a rabbit and a hare ain't fit to go to Parliament."

No Mystery House Now at Colony at Cedar-by-the-Sea

Cordial Greeting Given to Colonist Representative at Aquarian Foundation, Where Group Finds Happiness in Common Helpfulness

DRESSED in rough working clothes of the tasks at which they were employed, a dozen students of the occult sciences gathered in a commodious and well-furnished room of a splendid home at Cedar-by-the-Sea to greet a Colonist representative who had responded to an invitation to meet them.

Men and women whose faces reflected deep study of subjects too abstract for the ordinary layman to discuss with them, they were willing to explain the esotericism by which they arrived at a common conception of divine mysteries. It was not the fundamentals of doctrines that the newspaper man had come to discuss, but to meet these men and women who had forsaken great possessions, wealth, power and social position, to aspire to perfecting their lives in accordance with their concepts of Divine will. With the perception and discrimination the purpose of the visit was appreciated.

CORDIAL WELCOME

"We will have you meet all who are here," suggested one man, who left his book-filled study to bid welcome to the stranger.

The others were called, and came from the dripping fields, from the workbench and from the kitchen and household tasks which occupied their attention. They assembled in one of the larger houses, which is the meeting place, and as they arrived each was introduced.

The conspicuous note of the gathering was one of happiness, and absolute lack of affectation. "You see us here as we are," laughed one man. "You would not think that this lady (and he indicated a quiet, smiling little woman) was a social leader in the East, and at one time was worth from three to five millions. She is our cook today." And he chuckled, while the cook joined in with the mirth.

"But you all appear to be happy," commented the visitor. "Of course we are happy," was the answer, and the speaker went on: "I was a business man in the South," he explained. "My annual turnover was a million dollars. Now I am working at various tasks, and am enjoying it."

COMMON PURPOSE

He went on to tell of the former occupation of each one of the group. One was an educator with a long and honorable career. Another woman had occupied a distinguished position as a writer; one had been a carpenter and was following his calling at the Cedar settlement; a man and wife had been employed in a Southern restaurant; another couple had devoted years to fathoming the secrets of the stars in England. Men and women of different walks of life, rich and poor, from homes of wealth and luxury and from humble abodes and callings they had come from places thousands of miles apart to serve a common purpose.

Now they were deprived of wealth. "We have only a small monthly income, a few dollars, amongst us," it was explained. "We supplement that with what we can raise from tilling the soil here, and so you find us," he smilingly added.

PERIOD OF TROUBLE

The conversation turned to other matters. They told of difficulties and differences that had shaken the colony; of discord bred of purposeful dissension that had brought pain and grief and disillusionment; they spoke of the 9,000 members of the original organization, and of the hopes of earlier days, and of the fears that had assailed some of them later. Their recitals, plainly told and presented without bitterness, completed an intensely interesting human drama.

Concluding the history of the settlement, the members of the group again expressed their appreciation of their present state and condition, with the fears, doubts and depressive mental forces banished. They made light of the physical obstacles of bush ranching by men and women unaccustomed to the work, and grew enthusiastic over the magnificent surroundings in which they were set.

HOUSE OF MYSTERY

"In your settlement here you have a place known as 'The House of Mystery,'" ventured the visitor. "Yes—it was, but it is no mystery now," laughed one man, and then: "Would you like to see it?"

The invitation was accepted, and the man, who had a few minutes before told of his former million-dollar-a-year business, offered to act as guide. The way was by a bush trail, that wound through water-soaked bracken, and beneath dripping leaves. Winding and twisting through the forest, over windfalls and boggy ground, the pathway at last led to a tiny house hidden amid great firs and cedars. A single room, furnished with a tiny heater and chair, its cleanly interior suggested no mystery. Yet this place was once regarded as being a sacred edifice, in which but one person was permitted to meditate and to go samadhi, communing with spiritual consciousness. The area about the little hut in the forest was taboo, and no person was permitted to go near it. Back through the dripping forest, the visitor came again to the clearing, and looked down the slope over the splendid homes and across the water to the green islands of the Gulf.

"And how do you like this place?" asked the newspaper man.

"It is wonderful," exclaimed the guide. "I have recovered my health living here," he added as he bade the visitor good-bye.

"You see us here as we are," laughed one man. "You would not think that this lady (and he indicated a quiet, smiling little woman) was a social leader in the East, and at one time was worth from three to five millions. She is our cook today." And he chuckled, while the cook joined in with the mirth.

CHAPTER XVII
Judy saw Lona Burdette walking down the hall with Elton Day. They were talking earnestly, not looking up. Lona held Elton's arm tightly. He did not seem to mind. Quickly, Judy stepped inside the studio, sat down just behind the door. In a moment she saw Lona enter, alone, and walk toward the front of the room, waving casually at the dark man in the control room. He answered her salute. She sat down near the table, rattled the pages of her script importantly. Judy watched, saw how the blond girl stared, how the other girls stiffened with resentment and fear. Then the little round man appeared, closed the door and began chattering vigorously. His waving arms, his loud voice, silenced the girls quickly. "We'll make it alphabetical. That's fair to everybody," the round man announced. "Miss—Miss Judy Allison is first."

Judy walked past the other girls, conscious of their eyes, feeling their envy. And she smiled at the startled look on Lona Burdette's face, sure. Judy felt amateurish, uncertain, afraid. Quickly, she left the room, closing the door behind her. Now she must wait. Now she must be patient. No matter how long it took. Slowly the studio door opened. Slowly the girls came out. The girls who went in brave, defiant, desperate, were not brave now. They hurried having nowhere to go. "One girl stopped. 'I beg your pardon,' she began. Then her face crimsoned. She had a thin little face, with enormous eyes. Her skin was very pale and her hands were like claws. There was a button gone from her coat. It had been a fairly expensive coat, once, a long time ago. 'She tried once more. 'I beg your pardon.' 'Yes,' Judy said kindly. 'Could you—I mean—I haven't—' Judy looked around quickly. No one would see. She took a bill from her purse, stuffed it into the girl's thin hand. 'There,' she said. 'And good luck!' The girl stammered, tried to speak, turned away very quickly; almost ran down the hall. Now Judy was lost. Should she wait? Was there anything to wait for? Was it all decided? She didn't know. She knew only that Dick might come, and that he would know the answer; he would tell her. So, puzzled, waiting very slowly, she heard quick footsteps behind her. A figure walked beside her. The figure of Lona Burdette. There was a door at the end of the corridor. As they reached this door Lona stepped in front of Judy. "Wait a minute," she said. Her voice was not pleasant now. It was flat and brittle, and her eyes were small and ugly. "Wait. I've got something to tell you, Miss Judy Allison. You got away with it this time. Good stuff. But you'll never prove a thing. But you'll wish you'd never seen this place in your life!"

"And so, good day, and thank you all," she heard her voice saying. It was over. Good or bad, the work was done. And now she must wait, wait for all the others. Wait for Lona. Wait for the word to come down from the client, upstairs somewhere. Judy Mason, listening to you, Judy. Every word you say he hears. And he said he'd have to be honest, he couldn't vote for you if you weren't the best. "And so, good day, and thank you all," she heard her voice saying. It was over. Good or bad, the work was done. Dick came hurrying down the steps. He was smiling, very gay. His hair ruffled, his tie just a little out of place. "Judy! You made it! You were—you were fine! Here! Shake hands, girl! Shake both hands!" He seized her hands, held them will on occasions show excessive timidity and shyness. The child must be "brought out" and made to take its rightful and active place in society and made to mingle with groups of children. The child's feelings will be easily hurt as its nature is most sensitive. A love of the beautiful will affect its every thought and act. At school it will excel in studies, but will not take part in athletics.

Born on November 15, yours is a nature that craves power and authority. To gain even a small measure of happiness you must be at the head of whatever pursuit you are engaged in. Not the most kindly and honest of people you are not averse to using deception and trickery to gain your point. You will never be without money, but whether you have much or little, you will not know how to use it wisely. You are more lumbering in your thought than most people, but you do have a brain that thinks logically. You are not in any sense a spiritual person, and were you to be asked if you believed in a Supreme Being most probably your answer would be that you had never really thought about the matter.

Yours is a sensual nature, and you are inclined to surfeit yourself with material pleasures. Guard against excessive indulgence in eating and drinking. A careful and wise selection in taking a mate will almost guarantee you a happy and successful married life. Both the men and women are inclined to be greatly emotional with those who are dear to them.

Auctioneer — You keep bidding against yourself, sir. Yoke!—No I ain't. Me father and me brother both asked me to bid for this 'ere gramophone and I'm just curious to see which of 'em gets it.

What Today Means to You by MARY BLAKE "SCORPIO"

If November 15 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:15 a.m. to 11 a.m., from 4 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. and from 7 p.m. to 8 p.m. The danger periods are from 9 a.m. to 10 a.m. and from 2:30 p.m. to 3:15 p.m.

You may perhaps feel that you are struggling along with your back against the wall and fighting a hopeless battle. Do not let such suggestions enter your thought. You are on the right track and all you need to conquer is to continue your efforts. Acquaintances made on this November 15 should ripen into lasting friendships. Lover's Lane may be rough in spots this day.

Girls kill the breath with corsets that squeeze the diaphragm

Ploughmen wear gaiters round their legs while at work

The climate has no extremes in South America. In winter it is very warm and in summer it is very cold.

Electricity is a solid gas and liquid fuel.

Breath is made of air. We breathe with our lungs, our livers and our kidneys. If it wasn't for our breath we should die when we slept.

Boys that stay in a room all day would not breathe. They should walk until they get outdoors. Boys in a room make carbonic acid. Carbonic acid is more poisonous than mad dogs. A heap of soldiers was killed in a black hole in India and killed nearly all of them before morning.
